

We start the process of developing concurrent programs by defining a set of processes that run in parallel.