Formal Methods

"Use of mathematics in software development"

main activities:

- writing formal specifications

- proving properties about formal specifications

- constructing a program by mathematical manipulation of a formal specification

- verifying a program by mathematical argument